

You can always tell when Micro Soft is going to come out with a new operating system, computers go on sale at drastically reduced prices. Same thing for all electronic devices though; if a newer better model is coming out they dump inventory in preparation. Damn the customer full speed ahead, right much like the government huh? As a matter of fact Bill Gates et al may have more spendable money than the government, real money that is. Have you realized most of all the bad traits that industry and now the general public has the government taught them. It all started with, "I'm from the government and I'm here to help you."

Speaking of sticky situations the biggest problem I have with Gorilla glue is air leaks into the bottle and it dries out, especially in the outlet tip. The old glue, "Contact Cement" works good in that you can clean it up better. It is pretty messy though and not as good for holding, however it is more pliable when dried.

So you've gotten the publishing bug but your work has the runs, when it gets wet! The best thing about a laser printer is that the ink is thermally dried and is not water messible. Nothing worse than reading a book printed on an ink jet in the shower.

However, speaking of systems my brother-in-law has a system for horse racing, says it's full proof; as long as you have realistic expectations. He can produce an income of 7.5% from the money he bets. Says it takes the fun out of it though. That's better than I can get on any CD! Some folks have him beat though, playing poker and they still have fun.

Have you seen the commercials for Dr Frank's pain spray. It's on TV, you can trust whatever you see on TV. I see these shelves even in Walmart, "As Seen on TV." Dr Frank claims all you have to do is squirt the stuff in you mouth and it gets rid of any pain you might have or even think you might get in the future. He probably found the old time formula for "Hadical." Many a wino felt the same way; just a jug a day keeps the pain away; also works well for sleeping, passed out and all. Seriously you ought to try it, Dr Frank's stuff that is. He's the guy who added a new product by changing the label from his pet pain spray to human spray and is making millions. Or you might find a stash of "Carter's Little Liver Pills." They never worked either.

Speaking of doctors some of them are closing up and going home, it seems many are doing so now. Too hard to make the big bucks nowadays with Obama Care and all. Many are going into banking or day-trading. I know of several who have; some just quit and work at a gas station or such. I believe they are quitting while they can still sell their practice to some newbie who has to pay off his student loans. Obamamahama is going to muck up the medical profession so badly I don't blame them for quitting; of course it already is messed up due to governmental and insurance meddling.

I believe "Global Warming" was invented by "Chicken Little," Gore's just trying to take credit for it, like he did for the Internet. Everything especially the weather comes in cycles and changes, it always has, always will. George Washington would say the same; when he tried to cross the Delaware River it was frozen in big chunks. They called that time frame the “little ice age,” millions died in Europe during that time. It’ll happen again, just not now. Nevertheless with that said we all need to be good stewards with what we have. It only makes sense.

Can’t say I’ve been up to no good, but close. I seem to be the odd man out, like a bird hanging upside down. It’s hard to discover what it is I am supposed to be about these days, yet I spend a lot of time doing it.

My doctor believes “watchful waiting” the best course. Damned if I do, damned if I don’t. It’s like getting old, the older you get the more you realize you don’t know so much after all. I feel the same way when I study up on what to do about prostate cancer there is no good answer, like betting on the horses, you win some you lose some. That’s sort of what Reagan said about it all and the economy too, “it goes up and it goes down.”

So what’s next...?