

Weakly Review Column (670Words) Rights Reserved

Title: WHERE HAVE I BEEN??

WHERE HAVE I BEEN?? Turn around bright eyes and you're gone... yea verily and say amen. Turn around and a year's gone too, and I wasn't even havin' fun.

So what did you do with your last life... the time not spent well.... didja write a book... read a bunch of books... make new friends, bury old enemies?

Well me, I suddenly found myself consumed... that means covered up by mounds of relentless and sliding nothingness. How did that happen... I don't know! It all started with a new computer, I think? Anyway, it was so long ago that it's hazy. Then ther's the Wild World WEB. Isn't that what www means?

Obviously I been on a big trip into cybernothingness, not that I haven't learned a lot, but what good is a sea of stuff when you got no place to put it!

Seriously folks if you want to know something, anything at all just ask the great webmaster of cyberspace, Barney Google's his name. Just like that and you've got it, in a heartbeat. You can make clocks out of the disinformation you get.

Did you know what google means: The number 10 raised to the power 100 (10<sup>100</sup>), written out as the numeral 1 followed by 100 zeros. And, you thought it was just a thingy in cyberspace.

Okay, so how do you know the truth when you see it from cybernothingness? Trying to get a simple answer is a mistake... do you know how many people in the world want to know the same thing... and they all talk volumes on the www via something they call on www. hiotheblogaspheretwitter or something like that? That's what we used to call talking on the party line when there was only one phone line in the town.

I was born in Jonesboro, Arkansas. You could just pick up the phone and somebody would be on it and ask 'em anything you wanted. The answer usually was about as good as you get from the googlemasterness, "Shut up and wait your turn, we were here first, buster." Still you should try it; but don't be surprised if you disappear for a year or so.

Was it worth it? I don't think so. Hey, I'm so simple that I'm still looking for Mayberry, USA on Google world.

Again I say seriously folks... you ever thought about where you'd be if you weren't where you are? I did and decided I'm there already... I work at home, some folks think I don't work, me included sometimes, but I do.

That saying, "Bloom where you are planted" means something or we wouldn't see it all over the place and as our old departed friend Roger what's-his-face Miller said, "You can be happy if you've a mind to... even in a buffalo herd." Just watch out for the flying pigs!

Here's some OFFICIAL UNITED STATES MEDICAL INFO I got off the web: Some folks don't believe it though, they didn't even believe the "Exploding Heads" story... yet what do you believe in?? I mean the cybermaster wouldn't lie would he/her/it??? And too, it was in the Daily News, or was it the Washington Post?

Me, I don't even believe anything on the web and the paper it was printed on.

Oakay, the medical news: folks in Kentucky say they have the cure for Arthritis! Yep, it's a salve they've been using for years. A mixture derived from hot peppers, used on racehorses. It's now approved by Namcy Pelosi for human use, or spreading on your sandwich...

Weakly Review Column (670Words) Rights Reserved

Title: WHERE HAVE I BEEN??

whichever. It's called ARTH-Rx, but just watch out which part of your anatomy you put it on, it might give you the get up and go of a race horse.

It's no lie folks I read it on the internet and you better believe it!!!

An' by-the-way what mode of transportation carries more passengers than any other in the US of A??

The www googlecybermaster says it's the elevator.

So what's next...?

Weakly Review Column (670Words) Rights Reserved

Title: WHERE HAVE I BEEN??